GLASGOW, the second, if not the first City in Scotland, for the beauty of its buildings and opulence of its inhabitants, is situated on the north side of the Clyde, in the County of Lanark.—1711. Warnings of the Eternal Spirit to the City of G. in Scotland, by the mouths of James Cuninghame and Margaret M'Kenzie. 276 x.—1736. View of the City of G.; or an Account of its Origin, Rise and Progress; with a more particular Description thereof than has hitherto been known; collected from many ancient Records, Charters, and other ancient Vouchers, and from the best Historians and private MSS. This contains, no doubt, some useful information, but can be little trusted to by the impartial historian. The Author's love for the place of his nativity leads him into several ridiculous descriptions; and the importance and beauty he bestows on the City of G. are the more surprising, when it is considered that in his time it scarcely deserved that title. 633 g.—1758. Account of an Earthquake felt at G. and Dumbarton. 965 y.—1762. The Expediency and Necessity of erecting at G. an Academy for the Instruction of Youth. See Education, 1762.—1763. Practical Observations on continued Fever, especially that form at present existing in G. as an Epidemic. 432 d.—Printing seems to have been introduced into Glasgow at rather a late period, for we have not been able to discover any book printed there earlier than near the middle of the 17th century, although it is probable that some trifling business in the art might be exercised before that time. The first work that we have observed to be printed at Glasgow is a Latin one by David Dickson, and is dated 1645; (See 302 o.) A little after this date and we find several: particularly two of Sylvester Rattray's Works, dated 1658 and 1666; (See 792 b);—one of George Sinclair's, dated 1661; (See 858 d);—one of Louis du May's, dated 1669; (See 658 y);—and one by James Ferguson, Minister at Kilwinning, with the date of 1675; (See 362 k).——Em. Case of Asthma, accompanied with Palpitation and Pain of the H. and Shoulders. 619 b.—1735. The Foramen Ovale of the H. found open in an Adult. 27 z.—1741. Of the Foramen Ovale being found open in the H. of Adults. 202 r.—1741. Of Polypi taken out of the H.s of several Sailors just arrived from the West Indies. 531 d.—1741. A Short Account of Dr. Alexander Stuart's Paper concerning the Muscular Structure of the H. 686 k.—1741. Case of the H. of a Child turned upside down. 912 i.—1749. Traité de la Structure du Cœur, de son Action, et de ses Maladies. 844 e.—1754. Of the Difference between Respiration and the Motion of the H. in sleeping and waking Persons. 965 x.—1758. Deux Mémoires sur la Formation du Cœur dans le Poulet, sur l'Œil, sur la Structure du Jaune, &c. 459 a.—1761. Case of a Man whose H. was found enlarged to a very uncommon Size. 782 f.—1763. Of a Blow on the H., and its Effects. 13 e.—1763. Lectures upon the H. 653 l.—1767. Singular Irregularities of the Palpitation of the H. 153 h.—1773. An Inquiry concerning the Motion of the H. and the Circulation of the Blood. 703 r.—1782. Case of Angina Pectoris, from an unexpected Disease of the H. 551 m.—1782. Dissertation sur le Moyen d'élever l'Eau par la Rotation d'une Corde Verticale sans fin. 730 v.—1784. Case and Dissection of Mr. Holder, who died of an Affection of the H. 220 i.—1784. Cases of Mal-conformation of the H. 527 y.—1785. An Account of an extraordinary Conformation of the H. 782 f.—1787. The History of a singular Affection of the Action of the H. terminating favourably. 99 v.—1792. That the H. is without Nerves. 92 k.—1792. Case of a singular Enlargement of the H. 715 z.—1797. Anatomy of the H. 95 y.—1797. The Contractile Power of the H. and Arteries. 821 o.—1798. Observations on the Foramen Thebesii of the H. 2 w.—1798. System of the H. 508 u.—1798. Of the constant and involuntary Actions of the H., the Stomach, and Organs of Respiration. 740 y.—1798. On a very unusual Formation in the Human H. 973 d.—1801. On the Motion of the Blood, independent of the Action of the H. 458 r.—1805. History of a particular Morbid Appearance of the H. 873 l.—1805. Description of Malformation in the H. of an Infant. 874 u.—1808. An Inquiry into the Symptoms and Treatment of Carditis, or Inflammation of the H. 288 y.—1809. Of a Fœtus, in which the Circulation of the Blood was carried on without a H. 153 m.—1809. Observations on some of the most frequent and important Diseases of the H. 174 n.—1809. The Croonian Lecture, on the Functions of the H. and Arteries. 991 m. 9 o.—1811. Researches respecting the Influence of the Brain on the Action of the H. 153 m.—1813. A Treatise on the Diseases and Organic Lesions of the H. and great Vessels. 260 k.—1813. The Anatomy of the H., Cranium, and Brain. 789 f.—1814. Essay on the Mal-conformation of the H. 357 p.—1814. Observations on the Uses of the Dorsal Vessel, or on the Influence which the H. exercises in the Organization of articulated Animals, and on the Changes which that Organization experiences when the H. or the Organ of Circulation ceases to exist. 846 g.—1815. Experiments to ascertain the Influence of the Spinal Marrow on the Action of the H. in Fishes. 240 i.—1815. Experiments, made with a View to ascertain the Principle on which the Action of the H. depends, and the Relation which subsists between that Organ and the Nervous System. 758 c.——N. D.—The Circulation of the Blood through the H. 181 t.—Influence of Respiration on the H.'s Motion. 316 x.—A Curious Interpretation of the Expression in Eccles. xii.: the pitcher the Author interprets

Shewing what is bad in that Plan, and pointing out a new one to be substituted instead of it, or to be united to what is good in it; this new one tending to make the Poor become a full support to the Poor, and not only not burthensome to the Public, but great benefactors to it. Lond. Henderson, 4to. 1s.—1760. The Tendencies of the F. H. in its present Extent, considered in several Views, just as they occur en passant, in a lax epistolary address, attempting to preserve the lives of bastard infants, to continue the custom of matrimony, to strengthen the community in its population, and to better it in its industry, in its trade, in its opulence, &c. and most of all, in what should most be regarded, its morals; in several Letters to a Senator: Part i. 4to. Printed for private use.—1760. A Candid Historical Account of the H. for the reception of exposed and deserted Young Children; representing the present Plan of it as productive of many evils, and not adapted to the genius and happiness of this nation; shewing, on the other hand, the great importance of the establishment if put under proper regulations, as the most effectual means of preserving the lives of a great number of such infants as have usually perished within the bills of mortality; with a Proposal for carrying a new design into execution: To which is added, A Letter from a Country Gentleman to a Governor of the Hospital, containing many Observations relating to Foundlings born, educated, or employed in the Country; collected from real facts, with his opinion concerning the amendments necessary; the second edition, corrected.
